

In the slums in Brazil, Caritas helps to train young people to be good leaders.

Maristely is a leader in her community. She has to make good decisions.

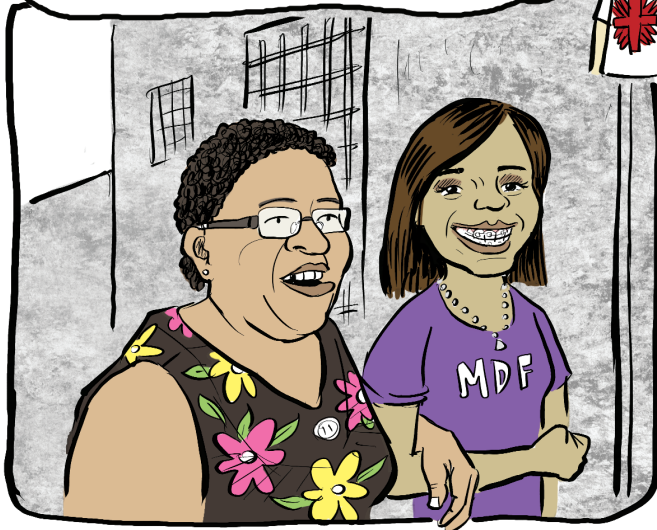

She meets with her community to find out what things are important to them - things like having water, electricity, toilets, and a safe and secure home.

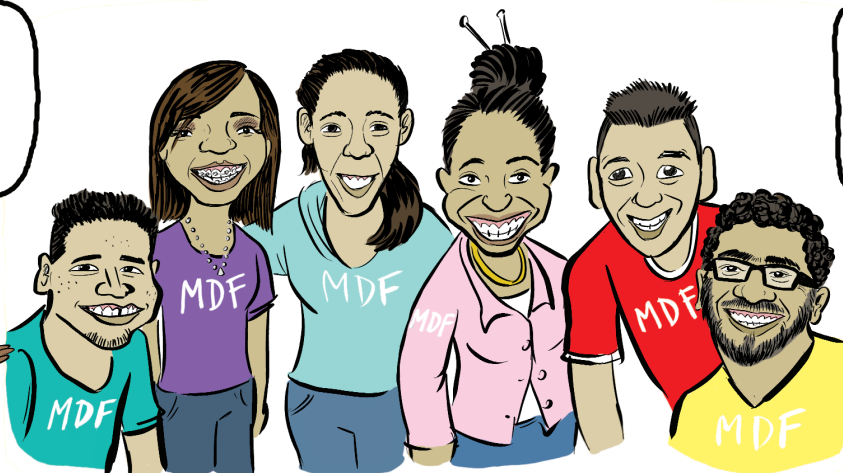

Maristely and the other leaders all have a special ring. The ring reminds them they have a special job to do.

They must stand beside the poorest people in the slums, work together and help to make things better.

Imagine a world where everyone was a just leader...

...where people made decisions that would help everyone.

